Glee Club of State University in Which Are Maysville Boys, Here May 13th

A musical treat and a fine program is in store for the Maysville people. We are proud of the advance that Kentucky has made in education within the past few years. We have shown our appreciation of this by the interest we have taken in our own schools, and in our State Institutions.

Within the past few years nearly a hundred students from Mason county have gone to our state institutions to further prepare themselves for usefulness; many of these have gone to our State University.

On Monday, May 13th, the Glee Club of this University will give an entertainment here. Many of the boys in this Glee Club are well known to Maysville and Mason county people. The Club consists of 20 men under the direction of Prof. F. L. Wheeler. Along with this Club is Miss Lorena Proctor, Soloist, and H. Tyler Watts, Violinist. Jack Wade is the Assistant Manager of the Club. Watch for further announcement.

Weather conditions having, in a great measure, retarded the clothing trade in many sections, manufacturers are making liberal concessions to cash buyers. Our trade justified us to take advantage of this condition. Come in and see the Suits we are now selling at $10, $12, $15 and $20. Whichever of these prices you want to pay, ask to be shown that price suit. Our Children's and Boys' Suits at $2.50 to $7.50 surprise our customers; they are splendid values. Our Shoe Department is crowded with people who want high-class footwear. A little cool to talk about Straw Hats, but when you want one come to Headquarters for style, quality and price.

WILTON VELVET RUGS

Lead in Service.

We Lead in Size of Stock.

We would rather sell Wilton Velvet Rugs than any other because we are sending into your house the best that can be made. They combine Oriental beauty with American integrity. Every thread will hold its own in the battle of service. Every tint and color will retain its shade so long as a vestige of the Rug remains.

Of course it cost was no consideration we would all choose the handmade Oriental rugs but they are far too expensive for most of us to reach. However, American ingenuity has devised machinery to do the work of human hands—at tremendously less cost. So Wilton Velvet Rugs are the modern luxury, so reasonably priced everybody may enjoy them.

We have a big assortment. Come in and let us talk Rugs to you.

The Pleasure of the Porch

Is increased many fold by the use of Vudor Shades. They make the porch available at any hour of the hottest day—a cool retreat, breeze-open, but protected from the sun's heat.

Vudor shades are made of wide strips of linden wood firmly bound with strong seine twine. They can be seen through from the inside, but not from the outside. They are artistically stained with water-proof colors in greens and browns. They last for years. Vudor Shades must not be confused with the flimsy, ragged and cheap-looking bamboo screens.

Single Shades Cost From $2.75

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

Keep out of Mexico and keep out of trouble.

Uncle Sam still "Remembers the Maine." No American warships will touch at Mexican ports.

"Champ, Champ, Champ! The boys are marching," it's a better song than Champ's Missouri dawg song.

It is more fun to see a man read a puff on himself in a newspaper than to see a fat man slip on a banana peel. The narrow minded man reads it over seven or eight times, and then goes around to appropriate what copies he can. The kind hearted man goes around to the office and pays what he owes. The successful business man who advertises regularly and makes money by it, immediately starts out to find the editor and the two walk silently down the street, and the business man takes sugar in his and they both eat a clove or two and life is sweeter and peace settles down on their hearts for a moment. Such is the experience of a mustard seed that falls on different ground.—Gilpin Observer.

David A. Trousdale, the Wells Fargo & Co. express messenger who, while defending the company's property, killed two bandits that attempted to hold up a Southern Pacific train near Dryden, in West Texas, March 13th last, has been presented by the company with a check for $1000 and a handsome gold watch, chain and locket, and by passengers on the train with a medal surmounted by an American eagle, the center being a five-pointed star set with a diamond. The presentation was made by G. A. Taft, general superintendent of the company, who also handed Mr. Trousdale a letter from B. D. Caldwell, president of the Wells Fargo & Co., expressing appreciation of the courageous and intelligent devotion to duty displayed and the remarkable presence of mind exhibited on the occasion. The train had been stopped by two armed men and Trousdale had been told by one of them who held a pistol at the messenger's head, to give up the money in his care. Watching a favorable opportunity Trousdale brained the man with a mallet and then with the robber's own pistol, shot and killed the other bandit.

Homer Davenport, whose death is reported from New York, was a great cartoonist in point of conception and craftsmanship. He suffered, however, the logical ill effect of his connection with the Hearst syndicate when Hearst was mauling the McKinley administration and making the attacks on the President, as the tool of Mark Hanna which Davenport afterward expressed himself as believing caused the assassination at Buffalo. The Davenport cartoon of atonement representing Uncle Sam sitting at the bedside of the martyred President, holding the hand of his stricken servant and hoping against hope that he would live, was a historic act of repentance upon the part of a journalist. But in the opinion of many it expressed the personal conviction of a cartoonist who had sold his talent for pieces of silver, and whose repentance came too late.—Frankfort News-Journal.

Twelve delegates elected to the Chicago convention from Illinois have telegraphed to the Taft headquarters in Washington that they are ready to ignore the instructions of the party in Illinois and to vote for Taft in the convention if the eight delegates at-large from Massachusetts do not abide by the preference primary decision in that State. The twelve delegates have said that they are willing to allow their names to be made public when it is learned definitely that the delegates at-large from Massachusetts have determined to cast their ballots for Roosevelt.

The Methodist preachers of Chicago by a vote of 55 to 28, declared that dancing, card playing and theater-going are not to be tabooed in their churches, providing the general conference which meets at Minneapolis next week, ratifies their action. The Congregational Ministers' Union of Chicago has taken similar action in respect to the drama, provided it is conducted along clean uplifting lines.

Respecting the drama we heard a little discussion the other day in which one person contended that where in the drama there is a breach of fidelity or chastity, and the miscreant at the bottom of it was overtaken by a severe penalty, the influence of such drama was wholesome and uplifting. The other person, on the contrary, contended that the dirt and vileness stuck in the mind more strongly than the penalty; or, in other words, that the punishment did not screen the crime. Which do you think was right? We think the latter.—Ashland Independent.

Roosevelt and Taft.

Boston Transcript: Translated it can have but one meaning, and that is that Roosevelt fed the presidency of the United States to Mr. Taft, in consideration for which Roosevelt must have expected that Taft would be a puppet to be moved by wires pulled by him. Has a lower conception of the presidency ever been expressed?

New York Tribune: Those who are most sincerely and intelligently appreciative of Colonel Roosevelt's past services to the country most clearly realize that as an answer to President Taft's complaint that he has not received "a square deal" from the apostle of the "square deal" the Colonel's Worcester speech is a failure.

Kansas City Star: The question is not, "Did Roosevelt give Taft a square deal?" It is, "Did Taft give Roosevelt a square deal?" It is: Has Taft given the country a square deal? As Mr. Roosevelt urges, no issue of personalities ought to be permitted to obscure the vital question before the election.

Pointed Paragraphs.

But the humbug seldom makes things hum. It is often possible to tell a hard drinker by his mug.
The path to the poorhouse is paved with gold brick.
The chronic bore makes a big hole in the busy man's day.
Many an old settler doesn't—as any grocer will inform you.
If a man would climb he must start from where he now stands.—Chicago News.

Everybody's Magazine.

A couple of drummers, having a few hours' layover in a small town, decided to dine at the village hotel. On looking over the bill of fare they noticed that young "fry" were "special" for that meal, so one of the men turned to the pretty little waitress and asked:
"How's the chicken?"
The young lady blushed, then answered:
"Oh, I'm all right. How are you?"

'I employed the best doctors and even went to the hospital for treatment and was told there was no help for me. But while taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use until I was made well.'—Mrs. HENRY LEISEBERG, 743 Adams St. Kearneysville, W. Va.—"I feel it my duty to write and say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female weakness and at times felt so miserable I could hardly endure being on my feet. 'After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following your special directions, my trouble is gone. Words fail to express my thankfulness. I recommend your medicine to all my friends.'—Mrs. G. B. WHITTINGTON.

The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which show clearly what great things Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from woman's ills. If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer."

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pains.

Cardui worked like a charm. There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.

The Steel City passed up Monday with over 2,000 cases of eggs shipped from Maysville.

This seems to be a good season for show boats. They are said to be doing a fine business.

There is great activity among the Government boats engaged in carrying supplies for work on the new dams.

The Charles E. Pearce, which passed up Tuesday with a show boat was built at Portsmouth years ago by George W. Edgington of Manchester. The ran in the Portsmouth and Cincinnati trade for years, competing with the old White Collar Line boats. She was named for the late Banker Charles E. Pearce of Maysville.

SPIRITISM SAID TO BE DEMONISM.

A most interesting little brochure has recently come off the press setting forth with Bible proofs that the communications received by and through Spiritist Mediums is of Demon origin. The writer traces his subject through the Scriptures from the time when certain of the holy angels became disobedient. He proves from the Scriptures that these fallen spirits personate the human dead, with whose past history, spirits, though invisible, are thoroughly acquainted. He shows that they also frequently personate the Creator and the Redeemer, commanding their deceived ones to pray, do penance, etc. This, however, is merely to lead them on and to bring them more thoroughly under demoniacal control. Sometimes by breaking down the natural barrier, the human will, they possess their victim, and rule him more or less to his ruin—frequently sending such to the mad-house. Numerous illustrations, Scriptural and otherwise, are given. The price of the little book is but ten cents; it should be in the hands of all interested in Spiritism or who have friends interested therein. IN MAYSVILLE

THE EVIDENCE IS SUPPLIED BY LOCAL TESTIMONY

"If the reader wants stronger proof than the following statement and experience of a resident of Maysville what can it be?"

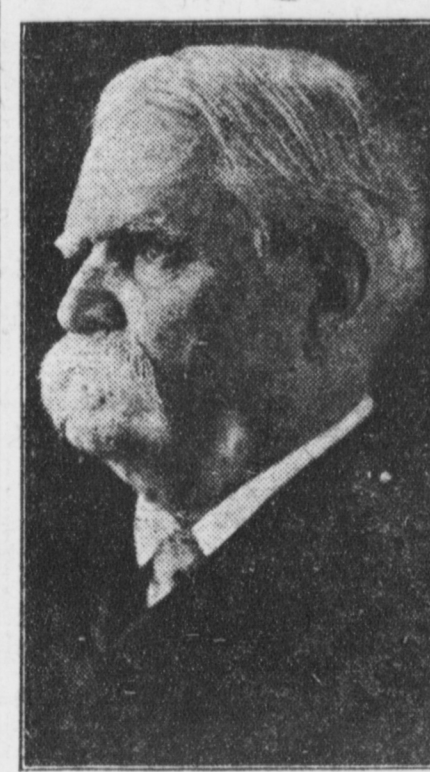

Mrs. Della Lunsford, 328 E. Front street, Maysville, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely and permanently cured me of kidney complaint and I am glad to confirm all I said in 1908, when I publicly endorsed them. I attribute my kidney trouble to a strain which started with sharp shooting pains through my kidneys, and a dragging down feeling through my hips. I was afflicted regularly with dull headaches and dizzy spells, and often if I had not caught hold of something for support I would have fallen. I was in that condition for several years, up one week and in bed the next. I finally began to notice the symptoms of dropsy, and in a short time I was suffering from this trouble. My feet began to swell and my hands also were afflicted at times in the same way. At night I was restless and always felt tired. I read of a similar case being cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, and I got this remedy at Wood & Son's Drug Store. They relieved me so much from the first that I got another supply, and before long I was entirely cured. Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Henry Watterson Hotel

Some men have cigars, race horses and steamboats named after them, but very few men living have million-dollar hotels bearing their names, where they can go in and have carte blanche, from celery to champagne, free gratis and for nothing.

The new Henry Watterson Hotel at Louisville, named in honor of the distinguished Editor of The Courier-Journal, was dedicated last week with a brilliant ceremony. Of course, Marse Henry was the piece de resistance, the host of hosts, and the toasts of toasts.

COL. HENRY WATTERSON

Editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and veteran Democratic leader.

Mr. Watterson as the guest of honor, was the principal speaker of the evening, responding to the toast, "The Sherry and Champagne."

He said: I am not sure that the planners and builders of this stately pile—this evidence of the growth and tribute to the enterprise and character of our beautiful city—have been either prudent in giving it the name of a man still living, or happy in the choice of a god-father.

Life is so uncertain. Anything is likely to happen. One may go to Congress—or State prison—even be elected President. Tom Reed described a Statesman as "a politician who is dead." Henry A. Wise rebuked the Legislature of Virginia for naming a county after him. "Why," said he, "I may yet be hanged."

In Paris, as, indeed, in all cities of France, where they have a habit of calling the avenues and streets after their worthies, not merely of war and statecraft, but of art and letters, though prodigal of their favors, they take no risk. They wait until their man is well under ground. I have a friend who lives in the Rue Adolphe Yvon. One day I asked him who in the "thunder was Adolphe Yvon?" "He was my next-door neighbor," said my friend. "An architect. He built most of the houses hereabouts. When he died the municipality marked off three blocks at this end of the Rue Racine and called them the Rue Adolphe Yvon."

When one of our billion-dollar diplomatist went as Ambassador to France, a few years ago, he found a mansion which just suited him. But it was situated in a street called the Rue des Biches. This, the Ambassador explained to the owner, made it impossible. It might by a certain anglicization in pronouncing the French, indeed it would, subject him to remark, maybe to ridicule. The poor Frenchman was aghast. He had spent great sums of money. His house had been long empty. He ran to the Maire and stated his predicament. "We will make that all right," said the Prefect. "We'll call it the Rue Washington." No sooner said than done, and so it has remained from that day to this.

Nevertheless, I am most grateful and gratified. No man could be more sensible of the good opinion of his neighbors than I am; none more grieved and pained by their ill opinion. You may remember Mr. Lincoln's illustration of the little boy who said: "He reckoned he loved gingerbread better than any boy in Illinois, and got less of it." Well, I am in the matter of accommodation as that little boy was in the matter of a gingerbread.

Along with some occasional praise, I have had in my time to take many kicks and cuffs, and whilst I have been as a rule too brave to cry, I have not been always philosophic enough to laugh.

I sometimes wish we could all think alike. It would save a world of trouble and not a little heartburning. There are so many obstinate men—men like Andrew Cowan—and "notions" men—men like Governor Wilson—real heady men, like the Mayor—and then there are the Ballards and the Belknapes—even "Peter Lee" and John Leathers—that, when rubbed the wrong way, are so hard to manage. There have been times when the obstinacy of those men nearly broke my heart. Yet, somehow, we have rubbed our old bones together nigh unto forty years without coming to blows and, after all, we have had along with the shindies lots of fun; and I dare say are none the worse for our differences of opinion.

I can truly declare that I have loved no man less because he did not agree with me. I may "cuss him—in our peculiar terms of muscular endearment—dwell upon the imperfection of his pop-eyed understanding, his bow-legged lack of political gumption, and his bandy-shanked, knocked-kneed, pigeon-toed, parts of speech, in fine, his obliquity of vision in general—but I have got as good as I gave, and, reaching home, have often turned my face to the wall and thought to myself as I fell off to pleasant dreams, "I shouldn't wonder if that old rooster was about half right, after all."

I know no reason why a man should not speak his mind out. Nor why he should not at a spade a spade. Nor why he should not play both love and cards "face upward." Still at its best, life is a battle, and as most of you have heard me say many a time. "Sporting life is a hard life." I know plenty of gentle men—not a few of them here tonight—who couldn't make a living at it if they tried.

On the whole, it is best to be good. Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old enough he will not depart from it—because generally he can't. A famous Governor of North Carolina once closed a general order to a Militia Regiment about to start on a junket. "And now, boys, good-bye; be virtuous and you will be happy; but you will not have any fun." He believed in the Byronican rescript.

"Let us have wine and women, mirth and laughter, Sermons and soda water the day after," and the Lutheran—

"Who loves not woman, wine, and song Remains a fool his whole life long."

You will doubtless recall the answer made by the son of a certain Governor of Missouri, who had admonished him that he was taking Luther's words too literally. "That is true, father," the son replied. "I have been living too fast, going too many of the gait. I shall have to lop off some of them. I think I will begin by giving up song."

For my part, I shall give up nothing that promises to make me feel a boy again, or at least a little forgetful that I am no longer a boy. Looking backward over a long life, with its ups and downs, its errors of judgment and infirmities of temper, I am not conscious of having ever done the irreparable; of having ever done the unforgivable; of having caused a tear I was not ready to wipe away; of having, in a word, ever robbed any man of his rights or left any woman worse than I had found her.

There is a verse in an old English song, which, when I was a lad, made a deep impression upon my mind and heart, and set a kind of example before me:

"If he to whom this toast we drink,
Hath brought the needy to his door,
Or raised the wretch from ruin's brink
By the abundance of his store;
If he hath soothed the mourner's woe,
Or helped young merit into fame,
Fill high; our cups shall overflow
In honor of his name."

I wish I could have lived up to it. All imperfectly, I have at least tried to do so. May the lines be emblazoned over this banquet hall and the thoughts be engraved upon the memory of all who banquet here. I wish prosperity to the over-partial friends who have put upon themselves this great outlay, have reared this noble hostelry and have done me the honor to call it by my name. God bless them and it and God bless you all!

Sensible Women Know
Foundation of Health

As health talks to women become more general, both in the newspapers and on the platform, the mass of women are beginning to realize what the more cultivated have always known, that good health cannot be found in a powder box. The externals of health may be obtained in that way, but the basis of health lies deeper, and yet is just as easily obtained.

The most important thing that a woman can do for herself, and about which she is often most neglectful, is to watch the condition of her stomach and bowels. The weary eyes, the bad breath, the frequent headaches, the pimples, the general air of lassitude is nine times out of ten the result of constipation or indigestion, or both. Many simple remedies can be obtained, but the best in the estimation of most women is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is mild, pleasant to the taste and exactly suited to her needs. It is far superior to salts, cathartic pills, waters, etc., which are entirely too violent.

Women should see to it that they have at least one movement of the bowels each day, and when showing any tendency to constipation should take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the small dose prescribed. A brief use of it will so train the stomach and bowels muscles that all forms of medicine can be dispensed with. These opinions are voiced by thousands of women, after personal experience, among them Miss V. L. Moore, 32 Claiborne St., Nashville, Tenn., and Florence Cook, Lucas, Ky.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.
